Big Doin's

In Town To-Night

Everyone in town tonight can have a good time by going to the grand opening of the new hall. There will be a grand concert with music and drama and afterwards a dance. The whole will only cost you one dollar. Good value, especially as your dollar will help to pay for the hall which is so great an asset to the town.

Norman Strachan has left for a trip to Southern Alberta. He is looking for purchased stock to bring to this district.

Brady Celebration

Will Be Big Event

The main topic of conversation at Brady these days is the big event on the evening of October 17th. The only "day in the ointment" is we are going to be shy of room. Brady school will only hold a small gathering and now it is called upon to accommodate over 120 adults not to mention the children that may be there. Tickets have been sent by mail to all those or our friends that helped with the fund. If it happens that a ticket does not reach any subscriber one will be handed to him at the door.

The district has been very fortunate in getting good live committees to work for the success of the evening. The committees are as follows: Dance Committee, Mr. E. Reichelt, John Jones, Ed. Foley. Booth Committee: H. I. Johannes, Geo. Masson, A. Hall.

Decoration and Reception Committee: Mrs. Reichelt, Johannes, Palmer, Paterson, Hall, Mrs. Graham (Canadian Mr. Graham (Canadian), and Mr. Paterson.

Entertainment Committee: Mr. W. Wright, Mr. J. S. Palmer.

As to the dance it is going to be the best ever. The music we understand is going to be a treat with the old time floor manager, Ed. Foley.

Our popular review is the man chosen to do the big job of the evening. I present the watches etc. to our heroes.

We all hope that Donald Meakin will be back by the 17th as he is the last man to arrive with the Brady contingent. God Bless Them.

We will alladen who attend the presentation at Brady please bring baskets.

Thanksgiving With Hammers

It would seem that Chauvin celebrates Thanksgiving day to the tune of hammers. The interest manifested at Code's garage, Nachtergaele ice cream parlor, the new Merchants building, he new Oddfellows hall and others were heard in the distance.

Our rental postmaster enjoyed the pleasure of putting up stove pipes, and generally the day was spent by the citizens, not in feasting, but by active preparations for the opening winter.

Chauvin Womens Institute Meeting

The members of the Chauvin W.I. will assist at the G.W.V.A. celebration November 11th.

They invite donations of all kinds bread, butter, cakes, etc., for the refreshment.

The next meeting of the Chauvin W.I. will be held in the new Oddfellows Hall November 5th. This being the first of the year was preceded by the annual meeting it is particularly requested that all members will attend.

The Chauvin Women's Institute has received the new motto pins. All members are requested to call upon Levesque who is distributing these pins.

We regret to record the illness of Dorothy Saul, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Saul, and wish to express our sympathy in the bereavement. We are expressing the sympathy of all the community. We are hoping soon to hear that she is on the road to recovery.

BORN: To Mr. and Mrs. O. Levesque a daughter, Sunday October 12th.

Mrs. Tacy, of Relist spent a few days last week visiting her son A. client.

Chauvin Flour Mill

Being Got Ready For Operations

Mr. Paul Debais, from St. Paul de Metis, has been working at the Chauvin Flour Mill for the past two weeks. During this time he has been thoroughly overhauling and cleaning the machinery, and he intends to operate the plant as soon as possible.

Separate School Starts Monday

Arrangements for commencing the separate school next Monday are well advanced. It is expected that all will be in readiness and that a full turnout of the pupils will be present.

Wedding Bells

The marriage of Germaine Leroux to Chauvin, celebrated in the Church of the Sacred Heart at 9 a.m. Tuesday morning last. There was a very pleasant party held after the ceremony. The Chronicle is but expressing the wishes of the public in general in wishing them a long and happy married life.

Freight Derailed Near Chauvin

The breaking of a wheel was responsible for the derailment of seven freight cars last Saturday afternoon. Fortunately no lives were injured. The westbound train was held up for several hours.

Provincial Fair Held in Alberta, 1919

The Provincial Fairs of Alberta are now finished for the present season and on the whole they have been very successful in point of number and quality of exhibits. Interest manifested and public attendance. One hundred and eighty fairs were arranged for last spring as by the season advanced and the drought threatened out the south especially became quite pronounced and serious, eleven fairs were cancelled, all but one of these being south of Calgary. Of the fairs that have been held only a few suffered from inclement weather, during the early part of September. As in previous years the later fairs had by far the best assortment of grain roots and vegetables, while the earlier fairs for the most part excelled in the live stock section.

The suitability of the soil and climate of the Central and Northern Alberta for the growing of the very best kinds of roots and vegetables of all kinds is being impressed on the people in greater measure every year. The exhibitors who have been perfectly astounded at the enormous crops of high grade garden produce in and around Edmonton. The writer has been in the district during the last six weeks and found no district to compare with Edmonton in this respect.

A good many fairs were held, unfortunately during harvest and threshing and this naturally affected the number of exhibitors and attendance. Most of the fairs this season adopted the revised classification recommended by the committee which was selected by the Provincial Fair Association.

On the whole, therefore, the Alberta Fairs of 1919, like its precedents, may be classed as decidedly successful and helpful to the communities.

The progress G.W.V.A. are making good progress in their preparation for the celebration, November 11th.

Come to think of it, this winter is making a strong start. We hope it's merely bluster.

Boost For Northern Alberta's Victory Loan Campaign

If there is one province in Canada that should support Victory Loan, 1919, and go "over the top" on its allotment, it is Alberta: because Alberta today is the most prosperous and happy province in the dominion. If there one part of Alberta that should do more than other parts, it is our part, because we know that we have been fairly prosperous this year, and that we have a country that will make us prosperous in the years to come.

Therefore, on national grounds, it is up to us to do more for our share for Victory Loan 1919.

There are other grounds. The money that will be raised by the Victory Loan will come back to us in larger share than our subscriptions. The price we get for our crops and for our cattle and other products of the farm is decided by the ability of our country

AN IRISHMAN'S LUCK

OUR SERIAL STORY

More than one settler remarked to a neighbour, as they left the office that evening, on the unusual crustiness of Mary Ann's manner and the sharpness of her tongue. The hired man, an East End Londoner, whose inexperience of farm work was usually atoned for in her eyes by the extreme smallness of his wages and his willingness to help around the house, was glad as soon as he had had his supper and done the chores to retire to his own room. He was a young man of a cheerful disposition and musical tastes, and was wont to receive kindly encouragement from Mary Ann in his efforts to extract from a concertina with a defective key-board the accompaniment to his singing of 'The Old Folks at Home,' 'Skyline,' 'Won't you Come Home, Bill Bailey?' and other classical lyrics, which he sang with a sentimentality which made up to Mary Ann's mind, for any strictly musical defects. To-night he had scarcely achieved a rather staccato prelude to 'Mother Knead Me in My Dreams,'—usually a most popular number of his repertoire—when he was crushed by the unequivocal question from Mary Ann as to whether he thought that folks as had been worried all day by cooking victuals for them as eats more than they earn, wants to be kept out of their beds by such like catawaulings. He retired, hurt, but still hopeful of a more favourable domestic atmosphere on the morrow, and was soon asleep and dreaming.

There remained old Dawson. The burning of coal-oil in the summer-time was against the established rule of the house, but since her mother's death, Mary Ann had relaxed somewhat the strictness of the old lady's discipline and usually allowed her father to sit up for an hour or so on small nights for a second after-supper pipe and to read "The Sentinel"—a sound organ which combined politics and Protestantism in nicely balanced proportions, suited to old Dawson's principles and mental capacity. But there was no dispensation to-night—his second question as pointed as that to which the hired man had succumbed, sent the old mangrumbling upstairs—then as was always a talking of a lame back had best rest it when they could, and did he think as was did the men folk's work outside, as well as their own inside, could do without their night's rest?

At last Mary Ann was alone and free to face her problem, which, being now secure of ample time and due privacy, she did with great deliberation. After making such preparations for the morrow's early breakfast as were possible over night, she lit the lamp and carried it into her own room and closed the door. The letter was taken from her pocket and placed on the little table, and she then proceeded to remove her print dress whose starched neck frill had been adding to her acute sense of irritation during the evening, and replaced the more restraining portions of her attire with an old woollen shawl and sat down to think out the whole situation afresh. For the present she was not concerned with the letter itself, she must go farther back and work up to it by degrees; she felt now, in her recovered composure, that at the first realising of what that T. M. D. stood for, she had shied at the letter as a young nervous horse will shy at the strange and unexpected object which is suddenly revealed on making a sharp turn in the road. She felt that she was too old and experienced to shy, and that perhaps now, when she was able to approach it as course of events for the past year, as far as they affected the lives of Evelyn, Tom, Dennis, and Bert, Enderby, and in the main outlines it is marvellous how well informed she was and how near the truth she came in her deductions—the baffling point was the depth and nature of Evelyn's feeling for Tom Dennis, and that, in turn, brought her back to the letter, but this time in a slower and more tentative way—she was not going to shy again. The letter was from Tom.

Tom, and Tom was alive—but—and she put the question to herself slowly, for she was determined not to accept a new idea too hastily—was it a love-letter? She had taken that for granted; now, holding her imagination well in hand she allowed her mind to formulate some alternatives—might it be a friendly letter?—but explaining how it was that the false news of his death had been circulated—might it not be sent to Evelyn so that it might not trouble Mrs. Enderby, and so open it if addressed to Mr. Enderby or Bert, or was it sent to Evelyn that she might tell those school children and so spread the news in the settlement —or might there have been some understanding between Tom and Evelyn and now he was writing to say he had changed his mind and was not coming back to Canada? One by one Mary Ann suffered these suggestions to enter her mind, only to reject them, but out of them arose a new thought, the slowness of the coming of which can only be explained by the mysterious constitution of the female mind—and the thought was this—that, after all, the simplest way of knowing, instead of guessing—as to the contents of the letter may be to open and read it. It is only fair to Mary Ann to say that the bluntness with which the question suggested itself honestly shocked her and brought a darker shade beneath her usual sallow and dull complexion. She laid down again the letter which she had taken from the table a minute before and hastily rose and turned the wooden button which was intended to secure the door from inopportune opening. It is to be feared that at the same time she turned the button of her mind which shut out the voice of conscience. The turning of the button was the cross ing of her Rubicon. Mary Ann had never actually opened a letter entrusted to the office before—it is true, when vexed by obvious suspicions in the shape of gum and sealing was that she had often vaulted to her mother of her ability to overcome them if she so desired—it may be that once or twice when letters had come open by

The Expenditure of $610,000,000

How the last Victory Loan was spent

For Demobilization

For Trade Extension

BEFORE buying Victory Bonds again you may want to know how Canada used the money you loaned her last year.

Canada borrowed the money to carry on the war and to provide credits for Great Britain and our Allies.

CONSIDERABLY more than one-half of the Victory Loan 1918 was spent on our soldiers. This included $312,900,000, for paying them, feeding them, bringing them home, separation allowances to their dependents, maintenance of medical services and vocational training schools.

$59,000,000 of the Victory Loan 1918 was paid on account of authorized Soldiers' gratuities.

$9,000,000 was spent at Halifax for relief and reconstruction after the disaster.

+ + + + +

Other disbursements were not, strictly speaking, expenditures, but National Re-investments.

To Great Britain for example:

$173,500,000 was loaned for the purchase of our wheat and cereals.

$9,000,000 for our fish.

$30,000,000 for other Foodstuffs.

$2,900,000 for Canadian built ships.

$5,500,000 to pay other British obligations in Canada.

Making in all $220,900,000 advanced to Great Britain.

To our Allies, we loaned $8,200,000 for the purchase of Canadian foodstuffs, raw material and manufactured products.

The Re-investments will be paid back to Canada in due time, with interest.

These credits were absolutely necessary to secure the orders for Canada because cash purchases were impossible.

They have had the effect of tremendously helping agricultural and industrial workers to tide over the depression that would have followed the Armistice, had we not made these credit loans.

As far as money is concerned, 1919 has been, and is still—just as much a war year as 1918. Our main expenditures for war cannot be completed until well on into 1920. Thus another Victory Loan is necessary—Get ready to buy.

Where It's Summer
All The Time

This is the season when you are thinking of where you will spend the winter. You cannot do better than consult our Grand Trunk Pacific representatives. The railway and steam routes to North Pacific Coast points and California is the new way and is without a peer. The ocean voyage through the quiet seas of the "Indian Passage" between Prince Rupert, Vancouver, Victoria, and Seattle is the finest ocean trip in America. Winter rates will be announced shortly. For information and literature apply to any Agent of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, or write W. E. Duperon, General Passenger Agent Winnipeg.

Fire Prevention

In 1918 there were over 17,000 fires in Canada. Seventy-five per cent of these were caused by carelessness and could therefore have been prevented.

Such simple precautions as the following will prevent many fires.

(a) Remove accumulations of rubbish from basements, outcuses and bish from basements, outcuses and backyards.

(b) Never permit children to play with matches. Safety matches that strike only on the box should be used in every home.

(c) Do not permit stoves and furnaces to become overcooled and never leave fires unguarded.

(d) Never throw clear and cigarette ends and pipe ashes carelessly away. Smoking should not be permitted around garages, barns, stables, granaries and stocks. Children should never smoke.

(e) Oil rags and waste ignite spontaneously. Burn them immediately after using.

(f) Gasoline should not be kept in the house. Store it at least 25 feet from any building.

(g) Oil stoves and lamps should be filled only in daylight and never near an open light or fire. Keep oil stoves clean and watch for leaks.

(h) Never attempt to kindle a fire by using oil or gasoline.

(i) In open prairie country plough fire guards around buildings and granaries.

(j) Do not leave bonfires unguarded until the last spark has died out.

The "Criminal Code of Canada" provides that any person causing a fire through negligence may be punished by imprisonment for two years. It is also a criminal offence to maintain conditions that may cause fire.

Excepting in the province of New Brunswick there are now Fire Prevention laws in every province in Canada. The provincial fire commissioners inquire into every fire of suspicious origin. Arson or maliciously setting property on fire, are serious offences punishable by imprisonment.

A steady looking individual knocked at a backdoor, and the lady of the house appeared. "Lady," he said, "I was at the front—". "You poor man!" she exclaimed. "One of the war victims. Now, here is some food for you, and you shall tell me your story. You were in the trenches, you say?" "Not in the trenches, I was at the front—". "Don't try to talk with your mouth full. Take your time. What deed of heroism did you do at the front?" "Why I knocked, but I couldn't make anyone hear, so I came to the back!"

An old miner, who has had fifteen years' experience underground, says that he has observed one peculiar fact, that between twelve and two o'clock at night, if there is a loose stone or a bit of earth in the mine, it is sure to fall. About this time everything begins to stir, and immediately after twelve, although the mine has been as still as a tomb before, particles of rock and dirt come tumbling down; and if there is a caving piece of ground in the mine it is sure to give way after midnight.

A lady is measured by the clothes she wears. A man by the pipe he smokes. A large assortment of choice pipes just opened up at The Chauvin Pharmacy. A pipe or every taste is here.

Teach the Children to Save

Habits are acquired early in life. Children, who are taught the value of money and the habit of saving, grow up into good business men and capable women.

The easiest way to teach children to save, is to start a Savings Account for each child ($1.00 each is sufficient). After a child has saved another dollar to make an additional deposit, he or she will have a better appreciation of just what a dollar stands for, and how much work and self-denial it represents.

ARTLAND ARGUS

A buyer from Edmonton has been busy in this district lately, and shipped out a car load of fine cattle, last Monday-week for the Alberta Capital.

Negotiations for the establishment of a school district in Artland, are progressing, and strong hopes are entertained that a speedy solution will be found for a problem of extreme importance to parents of children in this place.

In the meanwhile we may mention that a rumour reaches us of a movement for establishing a consolidated school for the Artland and Stannore districts, taking in Artland.

If such a scheme materialises, no thing could possibly be better in the general interest.

The Consolidated School System is an unqualified success.

The question of its desirability for adoption in a community has ceased to be a subject of dispute.

We were unexpectedly treated last Wednesday to quite a favorable specimen of a little Manitoba blizzard.

It did not last long, and with the trees still in leaf, we ought still to have some Indian summer days to look forward to.

ROBERT JUKES.

The first boat to leave Chicago on an ocean voyage recently departed from that lake port. It was a 4000 ton steamer called the Lake Granby and was loaded with dressed meats. The huge sums expended on our great lakes waterways are now bearing fruit and it is expected that Duluth and Fort William will soon be classed as ocean ports. This should have a beneficial effect on all this Western country.

An Irishman's Luck

of my woeing, and do not fear but that there shall be a warm welcome and a daughters place awaiting you in the old Connemara home. I know if you love me you will let my duty shape our future, and my duty lays with the old land now—before I had to make the hard choice—this time honor and love may go the same path.
A letter from our mother soon after we reached Africa told us of our father's elder brother—the old bachelor uncle. I have told you of, and who seemed as if he might live for years —had had a paralytic stroke, and could at the utmost, but linger for a few weeks, and his death might change everything at home. My father will succeed to his title and all the tangles and worries of an Irish landlord, as the eldest boy, my place will be at home, and doubtly so since poor Jack is gone. I'm writing home to-night to see I get this finished—I was never properly broken to letter-writing, and make a horrible mess of it. I'm going to tell them just how it is with me, mother won't be ill prized, I expect she has guessed long ago from my letters home last summer.

If you give yourself to my keeping, Evelyn, never doubt of the warmth of your welcome there; my father often said in the old days when my mother feasted him about his misadventures the men of our family—that there were at least two things that a Dennis could be trusted to do wisely—the buying of an horse and the choosing of a wife.

If you love me—ah, it all comes back to that, and between the two and no of it I must kill the time until my answer comes, and whether it be yes or no, this it will be the simple honest truth, and if I have my love in vain, at least I have done an honor to myself in giving it—Yours ever, TOM DENNIS

If only Tom had ended his letter when it was finished Mary Ann might have said her prayers and gone to bed.
If not with a sound conscience, still with a conscience, very decently patched, but his Irishman's luck had not reached its turning point. After he had folded up his letter and put it in an envelope, as he turned it over and pressed it smooth to address it, he was struck by the way in which his writing showed through the thin cheap envelope. "Dash it he had said to himself 'that will never do' and taking it out again he had added the following explanatory postscript before of paper.

P.S.—I hope the extra sheet of paper won't make it overweight, but my heavy flat was too obvious through the envelope. Of course, I know the outside address will inevitably proclaim my identity to Mr. Ann Dawson—poor Mary Ann, I don't grudge her that much satisfaction, but if I had sent it as it was the glint eyes of the old lady would have read the letter itself, and I was not writing to the whole settlement."

Unluckily Tom! Mary Ann began to read the letter fully intending it should never reach Evelyn—if it were likely to keep her from accepting Bert endeavor. By the end of the first sheet Bert was forgotten, and she was nursing Jack Dennis, when she came to Tom's pleading for himself she was winning her eyes, and by the time she reached the end she could see Tom coming back in his regiments, with his arm in a sling, to claim his bride, a touching scene on the platform as he landed from the train, and herself not very far in the background as a confidential friend and guardian angel of the handsome pair of young lovers.

The postscript came like an ice cold shower bath to her sentiment—"Poor Mary Ann—she had not been forgiven that, but at the offensive point of the glint eyes of the old lady—her heart throbbed against Tom Dennis with a snap. "The shame of it, and poor mother not more than three months in her grave," she said indignantly to herself. "It's not myself that is going to let Miss Evelyn read his appealing remands of a person's mother. So you'll wait until the first of July for your answer, my fine fellow. I'm thinking you'll wait a bit longer, and maybe when you hear your sweetheart has took someone else as has none of your smart ways you'll wish you'd left 'Poor Mary Ann' and her mother alone—so you'll wait."

Mary Ann still had tears to wipe, but they had taken an acid turn and ended in a sniff. But though Evelyn was not to have the letter it was still to be disposed of. Mary Ann smoothed out the last sheet, which at the moment of reading she had crushed in her hand, she read again the postscript: it confirmed the unchangeableness of her resolution—but what would she do with it? She thought at first of burning it but that would be rather difficult in her room, and she did not like to run the risk of going to the stove in case she was heard moving about and her father came fusing to see what was amiss. She had, besides, a shrinking from actually destroying it. She and her mother had been in the habit for years of taking a great deal of credit for the care with which they handled the mail, letters might be lost in Winnipeg, or put in the wrong mail bag by the flighty young Irish clerk in Minnesota, but folks know that when they once reach Dawson's office they were as safe as the bank. No, she finally made up her mind it should never be said that a letter was destroyed there—only it should not be delivered—she would take care of it and see how things turned out. It would be time enough to give up the letter when it was asked for.

It ended in the letter being put back in its envelope, which was refastened with the aid of a little gum, a little judicious smearing of the whole by a damp and not too sleekly hand gave it quite a natural appearance, with such a general look scrubbedness as might be taken to be the natural result of its long journey from Africa, and it was placed among the varied assortment of old letters and funeral cards which Mary Ann kept in a little box at the bottom of her drawer.

The compromise of keeping the letter instead of burning it was so far reassuring to Mary Ann's conscience, that vexed and wearied as she was by the conflicting emotions through which she had passed, she found herself able quite lulled to insensibility under the anesthetic of her filial piety.
